Chandigarh

EVOLUTION OF CHANDIGARH

Began in 1950, as a capital of PUNJAB, CHANDIGARH derives its name from CHANDI MANDIR, the temple of goddess of power. The City is located in picturesque setting, with the rugged skyline of the SHIVALIK HILLS as its back drop. The urban boundaries are defined geographically by two rivulets: the Patiali-ki-Rao on the north-western side and the Sukhna Choe on the south-eastern edge. The city owes its birth to the vision of PANDIT JAWAHAR LAL NEHRU, the first Prime Minister of India, and to the genius of the French architect, LE CORBUSIER, who transformed that vision into an enchanting beauty. In late March 1948, the Provincial Government in consultation with the Government of India selected the present site for its new capital.

The plan of the city is based on a rectangular module called sector. This self-contained unit measuring 800 metres by 1,200 metres is surrounded by roads for fast-moving traffic on all sides. Chandigarh has been planned for a total population of 5,00,000 to be built in two phases. The first phase comprising of 29 Sectors was developed for 1,50,000 persons and the second phase has 17 sectors to accommodate the remaining 3,50,000 population. The city was formally inaugurated by Prime Minister NEHRU on October 1, 1953.

Le Corbusier's master plan is comparable to living organism. The capital complex is Chandigarh's head, the city centre, the heart, the open spaces, the lungs, the network of roads, the circulatory system, the industrial area, the viscera, the cultural and educational belts, the intellect. Chandigarh is where 'Sun, space and verdure' create a panorama of new aesthetics, where Asia's largest ROSE GARDEN and a unique art fantasy called ROCK GARDEN are located. Chandigarh is one of the great planned cities of India. Fondly called the 'CITY BEAUTIFUL' Chandigarh has placed India on the world map of modern architecture.
